

Two BYU Departments Get Divorce

11, 13, No. 17 Thursday, April 27, 1961 Provo, Utah

College Site To Remain At Rexburg

The First Presidency of the church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints has announced, in effect, that Church-operated Rexburg College will remain at Rexburg, Idaho.

The report by United Press International pointed out that there had been proposals since 57 that the 900-student college be moved to Idaho Falls, 28 miles to the west.

The announcement by the First Presidency said that three new buildings are to be constructed on the Rexburg campus. They are a new library and classrooms building, a new science building and a residence hall for about 200 students.

The announcement, which also was signed by the LDS Church and of Education, the UPI report noted, contained no further elaboration. It did not mention a previous controversy over a proposal to move the school's campus, nor did it give the cost of the proposed construction.

President Ernest L. Wilkinson, Brigham Young University president and director of the Unified Church School System, was in Washington, D. C., and thus was unavailable for comment.

Symposium to Discuss Author -- Church Topic

A symposium will be held Monday in the multipurpose area of Smith Family Living Center as part of the Fine Arts Festival. The symposium panel, beginning at 4:15 p.m., will discuss the "Use of Mormon Resources in Creative Literature." Discussion will cover the various ways Mormon authors use Mormon background in their works and suggestion on other uses of the literature. The panel will also talk about the amount of freedom Church writers have and their responsibility.

Panel members will be Juanita Brooks, prominent Utah writer; Frank Robertson, Provo Herald columnist; Theron Luke, Herald city editor; Dr. Robert Thomas of the English Dept. and head of the Honors Program; J. Reuben Clark III, French instructor; and Gustave O. Larsen of the Religion Institute.

"The Marriage of Figaro" will be held the same evening in the Smith Auditorium as part of the festival. This will be the final performance of Mozart's opera.

Leontyne Price . . .

Famed Opera Soprano To Sing At Y

Leontyne Price, who made a national debut at the Metropolitan Opera this season, will be presented in concert at Brigham Young University May 5 at 10 p.m. in Smith Fieldhouse.

MISS PRICE's concert is a part of the BYU-Community Center series and the last number in the BYU Fine Arts Festival. A great American soprano.

Miss Price has been singled out repeatedly by leading critics of the world because of the "exceptional beauty and range of her voice, her instinctive versatility, penetrating artistry, basic musicianship and personal charm."

ON ALL CONTINENTS where she has been heard this young artist is honored as an international star of opera, recital halls, soloist with major symphony orchestras, on television, radio and as a recording artist.

In the eight years since she was a student at the Juillard School of Music, her flight to the top of her profession has been as swift and permanent as it was inevitable. Such rare talent has made her a favorite among today's greatest maestros and leading composers.

WHEN MISS PRICE was invited by Rudolf Bing to sing at the Metropolitan Opera and make her debut as Leonora in "Il Trovatore" in January 1961, she became prima donna of nine of the greatest opera houses in the world. Her first performances in this field were on television under Peter Herman Adler for the NBC Opera Company, beginning with her "Tosca" in 1955.

Her stage debut was in 1957 with the San Francisco Opera, followed quickly by the Vienna Staatsoper, London's Covent Garden, Italy's Opera Arena at Verona, Austria's Salzburg Festival, the Chicago Lyric Theater, the world renowned LaScala of Milan and the Metropolitan.

Combined Speech, Dramatic Arts Split To Pave Way for More Specialization

The combined Speech and Dramatic Arts Dept. has just been separated into two new departments, the Dramatic Arts Dept. and the Speech Dept.

HAROLD I. HANSEN, who headed the original department, will continue as dramatic arts chairman, according to President Ernest L. Wilkinson, who announced the change. Morris M. Clinger, assistant professor of speech, has been appointed chairman of the Speech Dept.

PRES WILKINSON explained that the vast scope of the department called for a division in order to achieve more effective specialization. Faculty members and courses in both departments will still be closely coordinated in certain related areas.

This is because students preparing to teach in school or meet the competition in professional theater, radio and television must be able to combine certain areas of study.

ASSOCIATED WITH Dr. Hansen will be Dr. Preston R. Gledhill and Dr. Lael Woodbury, associate professors; Lynn A. McKinlay, Owen S. Rich, and Tess M. Williams, assistant professors; Georgia Faux, Max C. Golithigly, Charles A. Henson, Carol Michie, Robert E. Struthers, Grace Nixon Stewart and Norman Tarbox, instructors.

Associated with Prof. Clinger will be Dr. Gerrit de Jong, Jr., Dr. Albert O. Mitchell and Dr. Alonzo J. Morley, professors; Dr. J. LaVar Bateman and Dr. Merlin J. Meacham, associate professors; J. Lorin Jex, Kathryn B. Pardee, Jed J. Richardson, Ross M. Weaver, assistant professors; Robert R. Boren and Ruth S. Smith, instructors.

THE DRAMATIC Arts Dept. will handle all of the areas of the theatre, its history, stagecraft, playwrighting, interpretation, acting, makeup, dramatic techniques, children's theatre, play production and directing.

Also in this department will be placed the teaching and production of radio and television, such as program writing, programming, radio and TV law, announcing, directing and production.

The Speech Dept. will be concerned with speech fundamentals, such as speech for foreigners, psychology of speech, public speaking, debate, storytelling, phonetics, discussion leadership, program directing, speech teaching and all the areas of speech and hearing correction, such as lip reading, correction of organic speech disorders, teaching the deaf and hard of hearing, anatomy of ear and vocal organs, stuttering and audiometry.

Assembly to Use Abstract, Symbols

The struggle of a youth as he grows to maturity has been made into a modern, abstract entertainment for the Junior Prom assembly.

THIS ASSEMBLY, which annually precedes the two-day Prom, will be held at 10 a.m., Friday in Smith Fieldhouse. The youth, played by Mel Gish, is influenced by his experiences in school, the various and deepening loves of developing manhood and war.

FLIRTATION, the girl in his life, is played by Loa Kirk. Sharon Jax Johnson represents the woman of Love.

The assembly will be followed, Friday and Saturday evenings by the Prom in Smith Fieldhouse. The Four Preps concert will precede the Prom and the Preps will not perform at the Prom.

TICKETS ARE now on sale for the concert alone. They are being sold in Smith Family Living Center foyer from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m., and are $1 per person.

Prom chairman is Marv Wrigley.

PROM ASSEMBLY—Youth (Mel Gish) and Flirtation (Loa Kirk) will be seen in this year's prom assembly "Impressions." Personification, and symbolism will be used to present ideas and traits in the form of performances. (Photo by Ham Akimoto)

Why Keep Dress Standards?

As women of BYU, we might ask ourselves this question: What is the purpose of dress standards and why are they so important? President David O. McKay has stated, "Modesty, 'that diamond setting to female beauty,' is in some circles considered prudish, puritanic; and the influence is leading astray some of our girls who are susceptible to the influence of society."

This university we attend cannot be compared with other universities in our nation. It is a church university and the Church it represents is the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints. Our ideals and standards are higher.

This is a great challenge to women of BYU and their dress. We set the example before the church and the world. The way we dress represents our church to the outside world.

A lot has been said about dress standards and perhaps you are getting tired of reading about it, but the problem still exists on our campus. I don't believe the thing to do is to use force such as compulsion or else. The great need is for each girl to feel within herself the desire to dress modestly. When each girl on our campus can honestly feel this within, then we will have solved the problem of dress standards.

What do the men of BYU think? I have asked several fellows what their opinion was on this important matter and their replies could be summed up by the response given by David Jacobs.

"I have no desire to take out a girl who is immodestly dressed. I feel that outward dress reflects inward thoughts. This year I have seen what I think are violations of the dress standards of our Church at invitational and school dances. There should be no excuse for the continuance of this practice. We are not like the world - even in our dress. I'd like to compliment the majority of girls on our campus for their wholesome, becoming and modest dress - we fellows appreciate it."

Why Compel? This is a question we must ask ourselves and then make a decision.

Hop Aboard -- It's All In Fun

Right about now is the time for students who want to work in student government next year to polish up their manners and dust off their shoes for interviews.

Approximately 1,000 students a year are involved in the never ending gyrations of student government. The wheels go 'round and 'round right and day for those fortunate enough to actively participate in the school's wealth of committees, subcommittees, panels, and councils.

Recently elected student body officers are currently holding interviews for next year's chairman of such diverse activities as pep leaders, supreme court judges, lighting experts and public relations workers. To mention only a few.

Some sinner students have the opinion that all this noise in student body affairs is pointless, but those who participate in even a small way take a fierce pride in their work which is hard to match in the student who devotes himself solely to studies.

We urge those who criticize this mad merry-go-round to drop down to the basement of the Clark Student Service Center this week and we guarantee they'll find a position somewhere where their talents can be used. Even the Universe is seeking help for next year's associates on academic traditions.

Portugal vs. Brazil

Dear Editor:

The last University Cinema film Black Orpheus was advertised all over our campus as "from Portugal." While it is true that the dialogue is in the Portuguese language, the film is actually from Brazil.

Perhaps it is just as well for had they realized that the film is from Brazil, they would without any doubt have advertised: "Dialogue in Spanish!"

Respectfully,
P. Mallazari

Denis Sorensen

For Lynn S. Farnsworth and others:

Let us not forget Mr. Farnsworth, that intelligent, logical discussion of an issue requires that the issue be discussed and not the man who proffers an opinion.

Now, there are a few points of which you may not be aware that I should like to discuss.

FIRST: It is not supposition, but fact, that the Honor Council in its present procedure is primarily a punitive body. (I appreciate their efforts at "preventive medicine," but, in my opinion, said poster fails in its purpose.) It is punitive in that its present function allows people to be called and brought before the council without even the simple safeguards offered by civil jurisprudence.

The accused has no knowledge of the charge against him until he has been brought before the council for "trial." The accused must then submit to questioning without the slightest indication as to who his accuser might be. This makes it possible to accuse someone falsely — purposely or otherwise — without accepting any responsibility for the act.

THE HONOR COUNCIL has records of accusations of cheating, smoking, drinking (to name a few) which have been proven to be false and simply the result of vindictive lies of jealous people. This occurs, together with errors in judgment or identification, simply because, under the present system, the accuser need not appear as a witness, nor take the responsibility for his accusation.

Then the Honor Council comes along with a poster telling us it is our duty to support a fallacious system (which could be corrected, but isn't) and uses our president's picture (if I may repeat myself) "as their subtle means of coercion." I suggest that this is a misuse of his likeness.

SECOND: Let me assure you, Lynn, I am not against intellig-gent, positive appeals for better standards — a fact you would have picked up had you been a little more careful in your reading. I am definitely against the use of "ill-conceived" posters as an attempt to gain that end.

Let the Honor Council produce some posters of a positive, non-coercive nature such as the "BE HONEST WITH YOURSELF" group (which, incidentally, are masterpieces) or the "Brighten Your Understanding" quotations and I, for one, will be more than pleased with their preventive efforts.

THIRD: Granted — we oftentimes need a positive, external influence to aid us in our program of self-perfection. Otherwise, a Church organization, with missionary system, auxiliaries, etc., would be of little value. But let us also remember, let the "committee" that is said "Thou shalt not steal," or cheat or use other people's money or your own" did not let its messengers to come running back with reports of violation of those principles.

And His messengers are great deal less fallible than are.

Ad Infinitum

... a column by Sue Bailey

When I came into the student center this morning, discovered a big, expensive-looking sign which had in huge capital letters DOWNSTAIRS.

Underneath this blaring name were listed all his qualifications — Department of Journalism, Coordinator of Student Organizations, Student Publications and Executive Council ASBYU. I wonder why he didn't make studentbody president.

Of course he didn't have a picture with his poster. That is it kind of hard for students to see what he looks like.

You know, it is amazing the kind of doctrine they try to sell you the student center. I found "How to succeed in business — (cheap)" stamped in bold black letters on number 5x7 cards.

I am of the opinion that if I buy one of the above mentioned cards plus one of the following: "My mind's made up. Don't confuse me with facts," further education at Brigham Young University will be necessary.

The sample paper put in each typewriter for sale appears to be more valuable than the machine.

Through these means the student center has the opportunity to portray — in a small way — the character of the BYU student.

Found on most of these papers is "Now is the time for all good men to come to the aid of their country." What not intentions.

"The big dog is not as mean as you might expect," is been typed on three typewriters. Are there students on it campus who are trying to convince themselves that big dogs are not fierce?

"You stink!" and "Warren E. Thorninock is a big dope, undoubtedly portray unconvicted, personal expressions of student frustrations.

When the cards to be sold for mailing to friends are family are carefully scrutinized, I wonder who is most disillusioned.

Student? "To Mom, who made a wonderful contribution to society. Me — Happy Mothers Day."

Parent? "Happy Mothers Day." From your spoiled child.

Also, did you know that you can buy a straw hat, Wason, stylist, speed feed, fibre face, Tony Trobert, famo player series tennis racket at the student center?

Like to Graduate in a Bathrobe? Must Get Order in by Monday

Caps and gowns must be ordered from the bookstore by next Monday or seniors and graduate students receiving degrees may have to do so in their bathrobes.

The plight of several hundred degree-earning students, though it may not be quite that serious, will be so if caps and gowns are not ordered by Monday, the last possible day which the bookstore can accept orders.

There are also many students who have ordered the caps and gowns and have not paid for them. This must also be done by Monday or the order will not be made.

Even now, orders will be late and sizes cannot be guaranteed.

Thursday and Friday will be the final days for interested students to apply for student relation positions, including assistant vice president and chairman of pep, publicity, public relations and international students. Those interested should fill out an application and make an appointment for an interview on the sheet on the bulletin board, basement Student Service Center.

All girls wishing to try out for flag twirlers next year are required to fill out an application in the Pep Committee office, 179 Student Service Center, Thursday. They must also be at the northeast entrance of Smith Fieldhouse, Thursday at 5 p.m.

Junior Prom Dress Standards Emphasized by Henry Heilesen

by Henry Heilesen
ASBYU President-elect

Girls, we need your help. As most of you are well aware, we do have certain dress standards that I for one feel are very important. As of late, many girls seem to have forgotten them completely. Some have been wearing strapless dresses to dances, others are wearing peddle pushers or Bermudas on campus.

I REALIZE THAT with the coming of spring it is very enticing to dress for contr. instead of complying with some of the standards. However, most of us would rather see a girl in a lovely spring dress (one that covers her knees) than peddle pushers or Bermudas, or a beautiful dress that covers her rather than a scanty strapless one.

Remember, the way you dress is noticed by more boys and your own girl friends than you think. The next time you go to wear any of these articles of clothing where they are not appropriate, please stop and ask yourself if you can really feel good about wearing something that is not within keeping of the dress standards.

I ADMONISH YOU to find out what these standards are if you don't know and to live them if you do.

Diamond Jubilee

"Spring has sprung, the grass has ris" . . . but there no doubt about where love is . . . It's at Brigham Young University in full force as of late.

Marlene Coleman, a freshman music major from Pocatello, Idaho, and attendant to this year's Belle of the Y, is pinned to cheerleader Wendell Waite, a Provo sophomore majoring in business.

Daily Universe associate sports editor Marilyn Curtis who is also a member of Di Chi and sophomore from Winston, Md. is wearing an Athenian pin that belongs to Sheldon Ewell, a sophomore from Monrovia, Calif. who filled a Spanish-American mission.

Jeani Nadolski, a sophomore French major from Downey, Idaho, and member of Central Assembly Committee and Kappa Delta, has also taken up wearing an Athenian pin lately. It used to be on Neil Coleman's shirt pocket. He is senior class vice-president and hails from Monrovia, Calif.

Carol Burk, a Tempe, Ariz. freshman, is making wedding plans with Rod Kimball, a Provo sophomore majoring in physical education.

Jeanne Banks, a freshman from Olathe, Colo. majoring in elementary education and member of the Hawaiian Club, is planning to be married Sept. 7 in the Mont Temple to Roger Ogden, a Utah State University sophomore from Richfield, Utah who has filled a Western States Mission.

Elmoine Orr, a sophomore majoring in HFDR from Boise, Idaho and member of Alpha Delta is engaged to Jack Wight, a Malta, Idaho senior majoring in animal husbandry who has filled a mission in New England. They plan to be married in August.

IK's Take Honors At Convention

Brigham Young University coed Donna Hilson was chosen to reign over the national Intercollegiate Knight organization last weekend at the group's thirty-seventh annual convention. BYU's Gold Y chapter was also given honorable mention for the National Efficiency Trophy and took second place for the coveted Most Outstanding Chapter award.

TWENTY-two members of the organization traveled by chartered bus to Moscow, Idaho, and Pullman, Wash., where the University of Idaho and Washington State University acted as hosts to the 28 chapters represented.

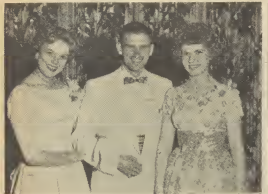

The following IK members who attended made up the largest delegation in attendance:

Disc-Chords

by JOE MEIER

Sometime ago this column predicted the appearance of a new album, sensibly under the auspices of one Frank Sinatra. It would be titled "Reprise." At the time it was expected that the release would appear on or about February 1st.

Well, EVERYBODY knows Sinatra is unpredictable, and it was because of some maneuvering on the part of Capitol to obtain franchise to the label, or maybe we played goofed. At any rate, the initial "Reprise" albums are out last week. They are:

"Makin' Ding-Ding" by Frank Sinatra. This is pretty good. We had it pegged originally. Johnny Mandel is a good arranger and under his able direction such albums as "Foggy Day," "In the Still of the Night" and "My Way" take on a real swingin' atmosphere. However, (maybe because Mandel can't quite "solve the puzzle") this is not the most notable album of the collection.

"AND AWAY THE MOST" pleasant surprise of the collection is the Sammy Davis Jr. effort called "The Whammy." The most noticeable thing about this album is the lack of the usual "WHAM" characterizing so many of the late Sammy Davis Jr. releases. With Marty Paich and Stevens conducting an all-star, all-jazz aggregation, the ears hear the "Wham" and gently caresses the lyrics to the jazz standards. Among them, "Much Life," "Bye Bye Birdie" and "Let there be Love." This whamless Sam is a improvement.

"Mavis" is the title of another of the new Reprise albums. Mavis is the title of another of the new Reprise albums. Mavis is the title of another of the new Reprise albums.

WILE BYU IS eager enough to claim this fine young woman, a former student, and Mavis is quite willing to be associated with the school, (she has a sister, Ravina, who has gone to school here) she didn't attend BYU.

and/or that. In this new album, Marty Paich provides the arrangements and conducts the orchestra and Mavis sings enough some beautiful ballads in what has become a sweet way.

Believe it or not, "The Warm Moods," is the album that led this first set. The first thing you'll notice about this album (that is, if your copy is like mine) is that both the same selection label. It's a mistake. They have recorded the same tunes on both sides and if you flip the record the selection list on the album cover is the same.

THESE ARE A LOT OF violins along with the Webster in this album. Johnny Richards, sometimes Kennerly, did the arranging and it comes out pretty much as indicated, warm and moody.

Announcement was made recently by Dr. Owen J. Cook of the Pacific Board of Education,

Church College of Hawaii at Laie, Oahu, Hawaii, of the appointment of MacLynn Olaf

Madsen as basketball coach and physical education instructor. OF THE 27-YEAR OLD native of Boise, Idaho, is presently a graduate student in physical education at Brigham Young University. He will assume his new position in September 1961.

While at BYU, Madsen lettered three years each in basketball and baseball. In the latter he was named to the All-Skyline team, and was on the district NCAA team. He also won Skyline recognition in basketball in 1959.

MADSEN also assisted coaching the BYU freshman basketball team for two years.

He is married to the former Lorrie Walker.

Gridders, Coaches, Fans Ready for Y Day Game

The results of three weeks of grueling spring football workouts will be on the line Wednesday when the annual Blue vs. White football game is played before the BYU student body in Cougar Stadium.

SPONSORED by the Downtown Coaches Club, the intrasquad game will be the first and last opportunity for fans to catch the Cats in action before they play their first home game against San Jose on Sept. 16.

It had not definitely been decided how the teams would be divided or who would coach the two teams whose players are trying to capture regular spots on the Cougar variety.

ASSISTANT coach Carl Rollins said the players have had 15 practices since commencing workouts three weeks ago and were expected to have two more this week and next before the Y Day tilt.

Rollins also said that the players had taken quite well to the new offense being introduced by head coach Hal Mitchell.

"But we still have a long way to go," he added.

Team captains named were Steve Dunderfield and Eldon Forde of Salt Lake City.

RETURNING lettermen include Paul Allen, Mike Brady, Mike Conrad, Dick Darling, Roger DuPaix, Gene Frantz, Porter Dion Frazier, Kent Horne, Merrill Johnson, Bruce Kochevar, Ron Nielson, Don Peterson, Bruce Samples, Layland Sheppard, Dan Taylor, Val Weenig and Bill Wright.

DICK DARLING—junior blocking back from Boise will see action in Y Day football game.

No doubt you have read about the Y's win over Utah's Thinclads. About all that we can add at this time is that the Utes also ran. It does our bleeding heart good to note a Y victory over our neighbors to the north, but at the same time we can see that this time the Utes came closer than they have for many moons.

SOME PEOPLE are suggesting that the Y is losing P touch in track competition, but the simple fact is that other schools in this conference are now giving scholarships to their students. Previously, these same schools have been interested in expanding their football programs, and have neglected other competitive areas.

Apparently, now is the hour for these schools to support the "lesser" sports, but we see Cougar supremacy for a while longer because of our program of assisting the athletes, and also in the type of competitive representatives which are still being attracted to the Y.

DID YOU KNOW that BYU is the only school in the Skyline conference that does not have a swim team? The reason that we don't have one is that we simply do not have a swim tank even though one of these was said to have been forthcoming quite a long while ago. Perhaps with the summer not too far away it is too much to hope that there will be a pool here this year, but not all of us graduate this year.

BRIGHAM YOUNG University players in many of the lesser known sports are bringing fame and fortune the Provo way. None the least of these is the Judo Club which will be sponsoring their first annual Invitational Judo Tourney May 6th in the Smith Fieldhouse at 7 p.m. Students from all over the Skyline have been invited.

Another sport which is bringing laurels the way of the Y is the Y Soccer club. Although not sponsored by the University this group of mostly foreign students has managed to score more than their opponents on five occasions this year, and at the same time have lost three matches. One of the games which they won was against the University of Utah's Explorers, 5-3.

AT THE MOMENT, the Y group could well win the title of the Salt Lake Soccer League.

Back to the swimming tank for a moment. This year's version of the Intramural Tank meet will be held at Park Road, which is now open. All interested students are invited to go out to the pool and practice.

BYU's swim club also meets out at the Springville pool and welcome the addition of more members, especially those who have had experience in competitive swimming in other areas.

Cat Nine Travels To Missoula

CKETT AND TWOSOME—Coach Glen Tuckett talks baseball strategy with stars and battery mates Bob Mosteller (left) and Jim Pierson. Pierson, a catcher, led the club's leading pitcher with a 3-0 record.

Coach Glen Tuckett's Western Division leading Brigham Young University baseball team hits the road this weekend as they travel along with the golf and tennis teams to Missoula and crucial contests with the Montana State University Grizzlies.

The BYU spring sports representatives left yesterday. Only the track team in a Western Division dual meet, stayed behind.

On the baseball side of the ledger, the two games with the Grizzlies Friday will kick off the second round of Western Division competition for both clubs.

THE COUGARS are currently leading the Division Standings with a perfect 6-0 record, while the Silvertips are narrowly hanging in second place with two wins and four losses, four games off the pace. Utah and Utah State with only four games under their belt are tied for third place with 1-3 records. They too, are four games behind the Cougars.

In the last meeting between the two clubs, the Grizzlies fell victim to what will have to be termed two of the Cougars' better diamond performances. The Mountain Cats swept both ends of a Provo doubleheader, 8-2 and 8-0.

BOB MOSTELLER won the first game, allowing only six hits while striking out nine Montana batters.

Bob Nod added insult to injury to the Grizzlies when he twirled the first perfect game in Skyline Conference history in the second game.

COUGAR BATTERS also had a field day against MSU pitching. The Cats pounded out seven home runs in the two ball games, three in the nine-inning game and Nod tossing the slab in the seven-inning contest.

Montana's Hal Sherbeck is yet undecided about his pitching choices. Sophomore Mike Dishman who twirled a no-hitter against Utah State last week although losing 2-1, could get the starting nod. Butch Hendricks, a hometown boy, could get the call in one of the games, and Ed Ko-mac will also probably see some action.

The Montana road trip has proved to be a hazard in the Cougars' quest for the division crown the past two seasons as they have managed no better than a split both years in Missoula.

Boo, Hiss, Cheer...

BYU Students Prepare Old Time Melodrama

Boos and hisses might not be appropriate at a Brigham Young University basketball game but they are essential to the enjoyment of a good melodrama.

Besides the sounds of disapproval, a melodramatic production encourages the audience to sob for the poor heroine and cheer for the hero whenever they appear.

"Please Marry My Nellie," an old fashioned melodrama is now being prepared for the public by a group of BYU students. Buddy Younggreen is directing the production which will open May 5 and 6 in the Provo High School Auditorium.

THE STORY opens as Nellie Lovelorn is frantically seeking a loan to pay off the mortgage on the family home. Since Nellie cannot put up any collateral, she can't get the needed money. The only way she can pay the mortgage is to get married by midnight.

If Nellie is married by midnight, she will inherit the Lovelorn fortune. Nellie's mother's (Fanny) efforts to get her daughter married furnish the theme of the play.

Jehadiah T. Jaundice, saloon keeper and mortgage holder, is more than willing to marry sweet Nellie. But Nellie won't marry for money alone.

SHE SEEKS the help of Truman Goodblood, our hero, a brilliant young banker. Through cheers, sobs and hisses, the climax of the play comes when Jaundice attempts to do away with Truman by tying him to the railroad tracks.

Besides the dramatic plot, "Please Marry My Nellie" features a can can line and an active group of bar-busting women known as the Women's Christian Temperance Union.

A SECONDARY plot concerns the attempts of Sally Vatan, leader of the WCTU, to save the town drunk from the evils of John Barleycorn.

Fanny Lovelorn will be played on alternate nights by Robbie McAdams and Sally Kirkham; Nellie by Laurel Fisher; Jehadiah T. Jaundice, Lee Seamon; Truman Goodblood, Ken Fowler; Sally Vatan, Kathy Wood; the Drunk, Arvid Willden.

AFTER THE melodrama, an olio will be presented. The after-show entertainment will feature tear jerking ballads, soft shoe routines and ragtime piano.

The melodrama is an early type of American theater performed in a distinctive style, said director Younggreen. It was considered naturalistic acting during the 19th and early 20th Century.

PROVO CITY was a melodrama town of some stature during this period. The old playhouse located across from the present location of Penney's was not torn down until 1923.

JEERING JAUNDICE—Dastardly Jehadiah claims that sweet Nellie will be his bride yet as Fanny Lovelorn shrinks in horror and Nellie (left) seeks supplies in heavenward.

Education Dept. Lists Offerings, Cites Purposes

Dean Aashel D. Woodruff served as first chairman of the newly organized Department of Educational Values and Programs in 1954. He announced that the department "is intended to lead the student into a critical examination of society for the purpose of establishing attitudes toward education and determining the general outlines of what should be taught in our schools."

In 1956 Dr. Keith R. Oakes succeeded Dean Woodruff as chairman of the department, and during his chairmanship the course offerings were completely revised. Dr. Oakes became Chairman of the Department of Educational Administration in 1957 and was succeeded by Dr. Stephen L. Alley, the present chairman.

In 1957, also, the name was changed to its present form, although the purpose and course offerings were not extensively revised. In 1958 the department began to offer a graduate minor in the area, and plans are in the making now to extend its degree program.
